

SNCF Réseau is carrying out a major operation to modernise the signal boxes at Paris Gare de Lyon. This work is part of an overall programme to implement “railway control towers” across the national rail network to simplify operation and improve performance. The new Gare de Lyon control tower will also increase station capacity in the medium term and allow for future increases in traffic, particularly for Transilien services.

As a result, no trains will depart from or arrive at the Paris Lyon and Bercy Bourgogne Pays d’Auvergne stations from midnight on Friday 17 March 2017 until midnight on Sunday 19 March 2017, except for RATP RER A services.

That weekend, TGV Lyria, TGV, INTERCITES and TER will implement a suitably reduced transport plan.

There will be no TGV RENFE-SNCF cooperation, TGV France Italy, iDTGV Paris <> South East region or IVR services.

It is suggested that Transilien customers postpone their trips or use the alternative transport solutions provided (RER C, bus, iDVRROOM car sharing service, etc.).

Departures/arrivals at Paris Gare de Lyon and Paris Bercy Bourgogne Pays d’Auvergne will be relocated to other stations as follows:
